This simple hand print logo can be seen as lying at the core of my artistic vision, it's origin is perhaps human kinds most ancient creative expression and can be seen in cave paintings over 50,000 years old, the signature of the first mural artists. Of course it's not a print, rather the impression left after the hand has been removed and as such symbolises the marks left on the environment by people now departed.

To me this is a profoundly democratic view of art for all, on the street, enhancing and changing our environment, interacting with people, landscape and architecture reflecting a sense of place through the expression of our history and humanity, it is this that inspires me.

My practice concentrates on working in large scale painted murals, mosaics for floors and walls and mosaic sculptures. In developing this work I draw on the specific site, its history and stories, its architecture and landscape and its community and users to create works which are specific to each site, enduring and beautiful. My experience includes working with other artists, council officers, architects, landscapers, interior designers, planners, engineers and contractors and I have worked extensively with a wide variety of community groups at every level of the creative process.

background & training

I was born in London in 1961 and began my practice as a professional public artist soon after leaving art college in 1984.

I have travelled extensively across Europe, the Middle East and the Far East and have studied a number of foreign languages including Arabic and Chinese.

Developing and exploring my work as an artist has taken me into many different areas including newspaper and magazine current affairs cartoons; book illustration; banner making; vehicle painting; Mural painting including, Buon Fresco painting; digital print processes; QR code works and Keim Murals.

In my mosaic work I have gained an international reputation and have had my work featured at the 'Mosaic Arts International' exhibition and won 2nd prize at the prestigious 'Prix Picassiette' in Chartres. I have spoken and taught on mosaic across the USA and in the UK and am the former President of the British Association for Modern Mosaic. and visiting lecturer at The Chicago Mosaic School.

"Your two pieces of artwork in Erith High Street; Mosaic (Stone Court out-building, next to The Cross Keys Pub) and Thames Barge Mural (The White Hart Pub), were installed as part of the SRB6 funded Environmental Improvements Project at the Erith Riverside Conservation Area. This involved you working with the Client (Bexley Council), various stakeholders, funding partners and the local community. The project's steering group carried out an evaluation and the level of satisfaction for your work, including presentation, quality of designs, information, expertise, conduct at meetings and overall organisation, was very highly rated. Well done and hope to work with you in the future - subject to funding!!"

Judith Houghton, Planning & Regeneration Officer, Bexley Council <judith.houghton@bexley.gov.UK>

"A very good service and installation. Always very helpful and professional."
Noel Hart, Director, Hart Associates Architects
<nh@hartarc.wanadoo.co.uk>

"I was impressed with the care shown on site and the finished product. I am happy to say it has already been much admired."

Nigel Burch, Project Director, Redbridge Council
<Nigel.Burch@redbridge.gov.uk>

"As Arts Co-ordinator for Integrated Arts Projects in South and East Belfast Trust's new Community Treatment and Care Centres, I am delighted to have been involved in Gary's first mosaic work in N. Ireland.

Body and Spirit, is a beautiful, thoughtfully conceived artwork that combines personal reflection with universal themes.

This creativity is combined with a thoroughly professional and practical approach so that issues of integration into architecture, working with other professionals, long-term maintenance and community contact are all addressed.

It has been a pleasure to work with Gary, to have our commission added to his exciting portfolio and I will follow his future activities with great interest."

Vivien Burnside, Arts Co-ordinator, South East Belfast
HSS Trust <vivien.burnside@sebt.n-i.nhs.uk>

We commissioned Gary to create 3 mosaics for a small shopping parade in Weston. We are absolutely delighted with the finished pieces. Gary is very easy to work with, he brings a wealth of practical experience and design knowledge and is able to communicate effectively with a range of people. The mosaics were completed to a very high standard and the finished product looks fantastic

With over thirty years of experience as a professional public artist Gary has often shared his knowledge and enthusiasm with others in training workshops, lectures, school programmes, professional development courses and community placements.

As a community artist Gary has worked with many varied community groups from youth groups, tenants associations, disabled groups, LGTB organisations, trade unions, schools and universities, staff and client groups, and black and minority community groups.

Gary has been a regular lecturer at the Chicago Mosaic School for over ten years and has lectured on the 'Art & Architecture MA at the University of East London. He has given presentations at The Society of American Mosaic Artists conference, and the conference of the British Association of Modern Mosaic. As a recognised international mosaic artist Gary has also juried a number of exhibitions including most recently the 2017 SAMA Mosaic Arts International in Detroit, MI.

Gary is the former President of BAMB and is on the editorial board of BAMB's ANDAMENTO mosaic history magazine.
